

HEARST ENLIVEN RACE IN NEW YORK

New Element Enters Into the Mayoralty Contest.

JEROME WILL NOT RUN

Senator McCarren Kidnaps Civic Alliance Infant.

Manager for Hearst Forces Says He Has Filed Name and Emblem of New Party—Candidate Bannard Is Embarrassed by Questions of Suffragettes, but Attempts to Answer Them—Registration Thus Far Low.

New York, Oct. 9.—With William Travers Jerome out of the race for district attorney, and with William Randolph Hearst in the mayoralty race to stay, the municipal campaign in New York has clarified somewhat and now promises to be one of the hottest mayoralty races seen in Gotham in years.

Jerome was not nominated by any of the regular parties, but secured his nomination by petitions signed by 5,000 voters. To-night, however, John A. Henneberry, his campaign manager, went to the offices of the board of elections and filed for Jerome his formal declaration to accept the petition nomination. Jerome gave out the following statement, to which he declined to add anything:

"After careful deliberation, it seems to me I ought no longer to continue as a candidate for election to the office of district attorney of New York County, and I have to-day filed my declaration of nomination as a candidate for that office."

Jerome has twice been elected as an independent.

Will Join with Hearst.

In accepting the civic alliance nomination for mayor, Hearst demanded that the other candidates on his ticket should be the minor candidates named by the Republicans and fusionists. For a time it looked like these candidates would refuse to allow their names to be used on the Hearst ticket, but H. L. Parsons, the republican county chairman, said to-night he saw no reason why these candidates should refuse to take advantage of the Hearst strength.

Hearst will open his campaign Monday night in Carnegie Hall, where the speakers will be Hearst, William M. Tins, a former Republican mayoralty candidate, and Charles H. Prager Smith. Charles E. Gehring, Hearst's campaign manager, promises a campaign that will overshadow the famous Hearst-McClellan row of the last election.

Kidnaps the Infant.

Mr. Gehring turned his back on the new Civic Alliance party for a few minutes this afternoon, and Senator McCarren's organization kidnapped the infant.

A squad of McCarren men from the Kings County Democratic Club hustled across the bridge with a petition bearing the name and emblem of Mr. Hearst's brand-new party, organized after Tammany grabbed the Independence League, and filed it with Election Commissioner Dooling just nineteen minutes before James A. Allen, Mr. Gehring's messenger, appeared with the bona fide petition, name and emblem.

Five minutes after the news got to the Civic Alliance headquarters, at the Hotel Hermitage, the place was roaring with excitement. Mr. Gehring was by all odds the coolest of the Hearst lieutenants. He didn't seem to mind the theft a little bit. For all he said, the trick would fail because he had filed with the secretary of state thirty-six hours before the name and emblem of the Civic Alliance.

Letters Embarrass Bannard.

Candidate Otto T. Bannard has been inundated with letters from the suffragettes, demanding that he declare himself on woman suffrage. He brought the trouble on himself. He had announced a week ago that he would give an every afternoon to seeing all callers, "including even suffragettes," letters by the bushel followed.

"Of course, it is impossible for me to answer all those letters individually," Mr. Bannard said to-day, "so I have picked out one, and in my reply to that I have tried to let my friends of the other sex know where I stand. The letter I selected was one written to me by Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, and I have written out a statement embodying Mrs. Belmont's questions and my answers to them."

"Do you favor or would you oppose extending the suffrage to women?"

"That is a legislative and State question with which I, as mayor, would have nothing to do. At present, however, I am not in favor of it. I am inclined to think that it will come about ultimately."

Judge Gaynor, the Democratic mayoralty candidate, to-night declared he did not intend to investigate the campaign collections of that party, as they did not concern him. He said it was up to the Democrats to pay his campaign expenses, and those contributions which had been sent had been personally returned.

The registration thus far is exceedingly low.

Hearst's political advisers have intimated that they thought Mr. Bannard would retire in Mr. Hearst's favor. Mr. Bannard has no intention of retiring.

"I have heard that there is such a report going around," he said to-day, "but it is too trivial to discuss. As a matter of fact, I think that my chances of election are better than ever, now that Mr. Hearst has come into the field. I think that the votes which will be given to Hearst on election day will be drawn mostly from the Democrats, and not from the Republicans."

DIES IN STATION CELL.

John McChrystal Found Dead at 1 o'Clock This Morning.

John McChrystal, forty-six years old, who gave his address as Twenty-first and H streets northwest, died in a cell at the First precinct station shortly after 1 o'clock this morning.

When the body was discovered the Emergency Hospital staff was notified, and when a physician responded with an ambulance life was extinct. The body was removed to the morgue.

McChrystal was arrested by Policeman Hixon at Eighth and E streets northwest last night on a charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct. The police say he has been in their custody a score of times before on minor charges.

PRINCIPAL IN SPECTACULAR DANCE.

Mlle. CHENAL.

Beautiful French actress, who essayed with brilliant success the principal role in the mammoth spectacular vineyard fête at Bordeaux, France, "The Glorification of Wine." Mlle. Chenal, whose success in "Aphrodite," in Paris, was recently a success of the French artistic world, figured in an "apotheosis of the season" in the Bordeaux festival, appearing as a ravishing spring. The place of presentation was a gigantic amphitheater of wood, built to represent the Roman circus which once stood at Boudigala, the ancient city of Bordeaux, and seated 25,000 spectators. A vast orchestra and corps de ballet, headed by Mlle. Chenal and dancers of international renown, enacted the spectacle, "Mithras Triumphant," which was followed by a dance of voluptuous abandon.

COLLEGE PROPERTY NOT SOLD

President Needham Denies Published Statement.

Head of George Washington University Declares Offers Thus Far Received Have Been Too Low.

President Needham, of George Washington University, authorized yesterday afternoon the denial of the published statement to the effect that the university property at Fifteenth and H streets had been sold. He also declared that no specific offer has been made which names a price acceptable to the trustees.

When asked at what figure he would recommend a sale, President Needham said that in his opinion the property, containing 41,200 square feet, should sell for not less than $50 per foot, which would make the total value of the site $2,060,000. A sale of this property is much desired by the university authorities, in order that the money realized may be applied to the payment of the funded debt of the institution, aggregating $500,000. Relieved of the interest charges on this mortgage at 4-1/2 per cent, President Needham feels that the university might then go ahead with plans for securing a new and permanent location. Until the drain of this debt is disposed of, it will be impossible to proceed with any changes, as all present resources are required for the current expenses of the institution.

President Needham declared that a number of real estate operators had made tentative offers for the property, but that the university named no such further negotiations were entered into.

DEPARTMENT CONCERNED.

Report that Dr. Scott Has Been Sidelined as Solicitor.

The State Department is concerned over a report that Dr. James B. Scott, solicitor of the department, has been sidelined as far as authority and official duties are concerned, through the appointment of former Solicitor General Henry M. Hoyt as the department's counselor.

In an official statement made yesterday, the department denied that Dr. Scott's authority had been curtailed, and denied also a rumor that he was to be dropped from the government service. A high tribute is paid to Dr. Scott, and it is stated that Secretary Knox regards him as a man of great ability, peculiarly fitted for the post.

Incidentally, the statement gives an explanation of the duties of the counselor. This is a new office, created by Secretary Knox, in order to obtain the services of Mr. Hoyt, for whose ability and judgment he acquired a high regard when they were associated in the Department of Justice.

The office is not sanctioned by law, and the incumbent is compensated for his services out of an appropriation of $100,000, which Congress provided during the recent special session, to enable Secretary Knox to carry out certain plans he had for meeting conditions in diplomacy due to the growing importance of the United States as a world power.

FEELS FIFTY YEARS YOUNGER.

Admiral Schley Celebrates Seventieth Birthday.

Rear Admiral Winfield Scott Schley was seventy years of age yesterday. He looks as hale and hearty and as well as he was at the age of fifty. The admiral says he feels as young as when he was twenty-five, and looks back over his life with the contentment and pleasure of things well done, or, at least, done to the best of his ability.

He is still active and keenly enjoys living. He maintains his habit of walking much and keeping in the open air. He travels, generally, three or four miles a day and enjoys it.

The admiral has just returned from a summer in New York and Lake George, where he was quite ill with an attack of bronchitis during the early part of the summer and was obliged to go to St. Luke's Hospital in New York City for treatment.

PEERS ARE WARNED

Lloyd George Defends Budget and Foresees Strife.

SUFFRAGETTES CAUSE TROUBLE

Women Storm Hall, Several Hurt, and One Hundred Arrested at Newcastle—Chancellor of Exchequer Declares Bill Is Now Completed and Its Passage Will Aid England.

London, Oct. 9.—Mr. Lloyd George, chancellor of the exchequer, in a speech at Newcastle this afternoon, made a vigorous defense of the budget and a bitter attack on the House of Lords.

Several suffragettes were badly injured and nearly 100 were arrested when the women tried to break into the hall where the chancellor was speaking. Lady Constance Lytton and ten of her companions were taken by the police when they tried to break into the hall by using hatchets. The others arrested made an onslaught on the carriage in which Lloyd George was riding to the hall, and the result was a pitched battle, in which the police used their batons, severely beating many of the women.

In his speech the chancellor declared the bill was now practically in the form in which it was going to become an act of Parliament. He said instead of the measure being an attack on industry and property, it was a fact that since its introduction in the House of Commons trade and industry had improved.

Dukes' Stock Decline.

The only stock which had gone down since the introduction of the bill, said the chancellor, was that in dukes, in which there had been a great slump. A fully equipped duke cost as much to keep up as a couple of Dreadnoughts. So long as dukes were content to be mere idols and preserved that kind of stately silence which became their rank and intelligence, said the chancellor, all went well. When the budget came, however, they stepped down from their perches because the measure knocked a little gilt off their stage coaches.

The chancellor went on dramatically: "What our fathers obtained through centuries of struggle, strife, and bloodshed we will not lightly give up. We are not going to be traitors (loud cheers). The constitution is to be torn to pieces. Let them realize what they are doing. They are forcing a revolution."

The chancellor concluded by declaring that the government was going to have all the taxes in the budget or none.

POLL GIVES ALARM OF FIRE

"Best Parrot Ever" Dies in Blaze Discovered by Him.

Shrill Cries Bring Help to Extinguish Flames on Porch of Housden Apartments.

"Fire! Fire! Fire!" screamed Dick in a shrill voice. "Bring the water! Bring the water! Bring the water!" And so he went to his death in flames and smoke.

Dick was a parrot, and as fine and proud a bird as ever lived, according to Mrs. Amy Conley, who kept him on the rear porch of her apartment in the Housden, at 22 E street northeast. Before she left, about 6 o'clock last night, to visit a sick friend, she carried Dick, in his cage, out on the rear porch, where he could look at the stars and breathe fresh air.

Dick had been on the porch only a few minutes when he noticed something was wrong. Beneath him was a porch leading to the entrance to the apartments of Mrs. H. G. Smith, who occupies the second floor of the Housden, while beneath Mrs. Smith's porch was the one occupied by E. J. Schildknecht, who lives on the first floor.

The "something wrong" which Dick noticed was on the Schildknecht porch, where a fire had broken out. Dick, being the parrot he was, he saw the flames and he saw the smoke, and he saw the fire. Then the parrot saw fire and he gave forth his piercing alarm. The flames rapidly ascended to the Smith porch, where Mrs. Smith's porch was the one occupied by E. J. Schildknecht, who lives on the first floor.

JACOB BIRCH FALLS DEAD.

Aged Carpenter Expires While Talking with Friends.

While making merry with friends in Wisconsin avenue northwest last night, Jacob Birch, a carpenter, sixty-four years old, became suddenly ill and died before the arrival of a physician.

The cause of death has not been determined. Birch was laughing and talking with James Gallagher and Harry Chick. The aged man was apparently in good health, and had shown no signs of illness until he suddenly reeled and fell. Gallagher supported him while Chick summoned Dr. M. Hunter, of 1729 P street northwest. The physician pronounced Birch dead. The body was removed to the morgue.

The police of the Seventh precinct are looking for relatives of the deceased carpenter. It was learned he formerly lived in Virginia. He had been in Washington several weeks, it is said, but the police say he had no permanent address here.

NEW CHAPTER IN HUFTY CASE

Washington Lawyer Causes Arrest of Theodore D. Wilson.

Accuses Him of Alienating Affections of Mrs. Hufty and Demands $50,000 Damages.

Theodore D. Wilson, a wealthy member of the Consolidated Stock Exchange, in New York City, was arrested yesterday by a private detective on a railroad train near Matteawan on a writ issued by Supreme Court Commissioner Daniel Harvey, Jr., to answer a suit for $50,000 brought against him by Malcolm Hufty, a lawyer of Washington, D. C., who charges him with alienating the affections of his wife, Mary Page Hufty.

The detective saw Wilson board a train in Jersey City, and when he was sure he was in Monmouth County he placed him under arrest and took him to Asbury Park on the train. Being unable to furnish $10,000 bail, the prisoner was sent to the jail at Freehold.

That the domestic relations of the Huftys were strained had long been known by the friends of the attorney and his wife. Recently Mrs. Hufty brought divorce proceedings against her husband. The papers were ordered sealed by the court. Mr. Hufty stated he was unacquainted with the woman named in his wife's petition for divorce.

His reply to his wife's suit was the filing of a cross petition. The papers, like those in the one brought by Mrs. Hufty, were ordered sealed.

The question of the custody of the two children was raised, and their care was given temporarily to Mrs. Hufty, the father being privileged to see them under certain restrictions. Earlier in the season the children were taken from their mother after a sensational automobile ride to Atlantic City, where Mrs. Hufty was sojourning. It was following this incident that Mrs. Hufty instituted divorce proceedings.

Hufty was the best man at Wilson's wedding. Later Hufty obtained a divorce from the woman whom he later married. Her maiden name was Mary Page, of Alexandria, Va.

Two weeks ago Wilson was arrested and released in $500 bail. The suit for alienation was then begun in Monmouth County, N. J., and Wilson was arrested on a capias, which charges that Hufty fears Wilson will leave the jurisdiction of the court and cause the suit to be postponed indefinitely.

Wilson, his wife, and children live in Plainfield, N. J.

WILL REVIVE QUESTION.

Whether Doctor or Line Officer Shall Command to Be Settled.

Surgeon General P. M. Rixey, U. S. N., has officially notified Secretary Meyer that the United States steamship Solace, which is being fitted out at the Charleston (S. C.) Navy Yard as a hospital ship, will soon be ready for service. Surgeon General Rixey has recommended also that the Solace be placed in commission as speedily as possible, in accordance with the existing regulations.

This recommendation will have the effect of reviving discussion raised several years ago as to whether a doctor or a line officer shall command the hospital ship. Under present naval regulations, a medical officer must be assigned to command the hospital ship.

Rear Admiral William P. Potter, chief of the Bureau of Navigation, will probably recommend that a line officer be placed in command. This will place the matter squarely before Secretary Meyer. No action will be taken, however, until all the facts have been laid before President Taft.

Sultan's Reply Confirmed.

Paris, Oct. 9.—The Matin while confirming the Sultan of Morocco's reply to France's proposals for a Moroccan loan, says that Abbas-el-Fasi, the Sultan's representative, made it clear that Mouley Hadid's conditions were not definite, and that if the French government would not accept, the Sultan authorized his ambassador to make the best terms he could.

DOCKET WILL BE HEAVY.

U. S. Supreme Court Opens Session To-morrow with 630 Cases.

When the Supreme Court of the United States convenes to-morrow the docket will contain 630 cases, which is fifty-eight in excess of the number filed at the same date last year. This increase, however, was almost entirely carried over from the last term, for the cases filed during the summer recess aggregated 152, against 151 added in the summer of 1908.

Among the more important cases docketed since June 1 are those brought by the Equitable, Metropolitan, and other insurance companies to test the validity of the law of Missouri prohibiting any insurance company which pays the president more than $50,000 a year from doing business in that State; the suit of the government to dissolve the Terminal Association of St. Louis as a trust in restraint of trade and commerce; the appeal of the attorney general of Missouri from Judge McPherson's decision that the two-cent passenger rate inaugurated by that State was illegal because confiscatory; the appeals of the government and former Capt. Oberlin M. Carter, U. S. A., in the efforts of the former to sequester certain funds, which, it was claimed, the latter had received through conspiracy with Messrs. Greene and Gaynor to defraud the government.

An unusually large number of important cases have been assigned for argument at the opening of the term. They number twenty-three. Owing to the absence of President Taft, the court will be unable to make its customary call upon the Chief Executive on the opening day.
